GREAT GERM DESTROYER:

Republican Prosperity a Take.

From Our Regular Correspondent. Washington, August 2, 1897. -The republicans have other troubles than those which will be made by the new tariff ahead of them. They are going to have an-end of worry over finance in the near future. It is an open secret that there is a serious difference of opinion in the cabinet on the advisability of committing the administration and the party to the retirement of the greenbacks and treasury notes. Secretary, as the personal representative of the bankers and ultra gold men, will make a hard fight to commit the administration and party to the retirement of those notes, al though he knows as well as anybody that no such legislation can be put through during the life of the present congress, Office, Second Floor First Nat. bank because of the silver majority in the senator. Proof that Mr. Office hours-9 to 12 am, and 1 to 6 pm. McKinley is afraid of this quesfal manner in which he avoided prohibiting the discharge of that congress has decided to Texas, tion may be found in the carecommitting himself in his special message to Congress asking for authority to appoint a currency commission. Mr. Mc-Kinley has been everything on the money question. He voted for the free coinage of silver life tenure of office, but if the torate of the United States is Call early and secure bargains. Should in 1877, and as late as the one desire to purchase the entire Fifty-first Congress, he voted notions and dry goods, I will sell stock in and spoke for the Windom sil ver bill and the Sherman subbarlobbers will find it to their interest stitute therefor. He didn't want the gold standard platform of last year's republican convention. It is doubtful if he knows want he wants now. He prefers to trim and to wait, but Secretary Gage intends, unless he is prevented, to submit to Congress in his annual relican party. Members of the administration still in Washington, are somewhat worried over the re-Texas sults of the new tariff as far as they have become apparent. They did not like shutting down of those big New England cotton mills, and some of them went as far as to say that the prunes, mince meat, pigs feet, sour mill owners should have been willing to keep on running their mills, even if they lost money, to help along the repuless the story of increased prices for almost everything but labor that comes from every direction. Speaking of this phase of the matter a prominent Philadelphia business man, now in Washington, said: "I bear that a general rise in
